KAISER'S GRANDFATHER HAD UNLIMITED POWER.

The following information was given in the News by City Attorney Alex. P. Nelson, who discovered it a few days ago. The case was one where a former employee of the Imperial government of Prussia had defrauded His Majesty, and the suit was to recover the amount from the estate of the deceased employee.

The following extract from an adjudicated case in the Missouri courts, King of Prussia vs. Knepper's Administrators, reported in 22 Mo. 551, will give some idea of the absolutely despotic power which the King of Prussia, the grandfather of the present Kaiser, possessed. The petition in the case is in part as follows: "The plaintiff states that he is absolute monarch of the Kingdom of Prussia, and as king thereof is the sole government of that country. That he is unrestrained by any constitution or law, and that his will, expressed in due form, is the only law of that country, and is the only legal power there known to exist as law."

This is a matter of record in the Supreme Court records of the state of Missouri.

AZTEC DANCES MAY SUPPLANT HAWAIIAN.

TIMES SAYS KOSLOFF HAS BEST DANCE OFFERED.

The Los Angeles Times stated Saturday morning that the dancing act at the Orpheum this week is the best ever offered in Los Angeles. There are many who have witnessed this exhibition of the ballet dance that agree with the statement in The Times, and, as the best productions that have been staged in the country have appeared in Los Angeles, it follows that the Imperial Russian Ballet Dancers, under the direction of Theodore Kosloff, are offering the public one of the best dancing acts in this country.

Theodore Kosloff, premier danseur of the Imperial theatres of Moscow and Petrograd, has a wonderfully fine developed sense of rhythm and color, and has an international reputation as a dancer. He is the first one in America to vaudeville the Russian ballet dance. Prior to the advent of Mr. Kosloff into the American dramatic field most of the Russian dances staged were dramatically top-heavy, and performed on stages of private theatres at fancy prices, being therefore patronized by a comparatively limited number.

Mr. Kosloff believed that the failure of the Russian ballet dance to attract the masses of the American people was the fault of those who prepared, arranged and staged the acts, and he soon prepared an act for the Orpheum, the best chain of vaudeville play houses in America, and the result was that he is the only man in this country who has been able to hold the vaudeville stage three weeks, which he did with his dance in Los Angeles in 1916.

Theodore Kosloff has the credit for having lifted the Russian ballet dance from the giddy heights upon which Pavlova, Nijinsky and others placed it, and it now rests securely in the realm of the average theatre-goer. This noted Terpsichorean artist is 39 years of age, and, figuratively speaking, was born on the stage, and began dancing in public with his parents at 7 years of age. His parents and grandparents were all dancers.

Great dancers must possess powerful dramatic ability and have a profound understanding of music. With these talents Theodore Kosloff is richly endowed. During his vacation last summer he appeared before the camera, in one of the Hollywood film companies, with Geraldine Farrar, in an Aztec story.

The dance which the Kosloff dancers are now presenting at the Orpheum, the last performance being Sunday night, is remarkably well balanced, which is one of the principal reasons for its big success. In the interpretation of the Aztec poem there is enough heavy dramatic work to satisfy the most erudite, while some of the other numbers are light and airy, and please those who do not care for the deeper dramatic side of the theatrical stage.

One of the great features of the Imperial Ballet is the wonderful Russian orchestra, under the direction of Rodian Mendelevitch, a Russian violinist of marvelous ability. "I Hear the Song of a Nightingale," so charmingly danced by Miss Fredowa, was composed by Mr. Mendelevitch and is played by him with astonishing adroitness. There are few persons in the audience who can scarcely realize that the beautiful, melodious, charming and fascinating bird-like thrills are from this master's violin. Some musicians who hear this number doubt that the nightingale twitters are produced on the violin. The feat might be explained as super-technique, and, so far as he knows, is not duplicated by any other artist. The piano accompanist is Miss Grayce Bernard, an artist of rare ability.

Mr. Kosloff is supported by Vera Fredowa and Natacha Rambova, charming danseuses possessing faultless technique and delightful style in their chosen art, who were with him on his previous tour of the Orpheum circuit; Iovonne Verainova, Maria Maslova, and Ivan Vickeroff, who have joined him since that time, and who appear to be doing their part toward the troupe's great success.

Last June, Mr. Kosloff opened the Imperial Russian Ballet School at

CHAMBER OF COM. WILL MEET TONIGHT

A SPECIAL MEETING HAS BEEN CALLED.

SOME IMPORTANT MATTERS

Harvest Queen Day and Community Christmas Tree Will Be Up For Discussion.

There has been a call issued for a special meeting of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce for 8 o'clock this (Friday) evening in the public library building.

There are some important matters that will be up for discussion at this meeting, including a "Harvest Queen Festival" and a Community Christmas Tree, questions that are of importance to all who are interested in the progress of the community. Everybody invited.

MEETING SOUTH COAST IMPROVEMENT ASS'N.

COAST ROAD AND HARBOR WERE DISCUSSED.

There was a meeting of the South Coast Improvement Association at the Huntington Inn Tuesday evening.

H. L. Heffner, president of the association, was out of the city, and Vice-President J. P. Greeley of Balboa presided.

The topics discussed were the coast road and Newport harbor.

Chairman of the Board of Supervisors T. B. Talbert stated that he thought the right-of-way through the Irvine ranch would soon be satisfactorily disposed of, as the Board had received letters from James Irvine of San Francisco, owner of the land, indicating a willingness to donate the required ground, but thought he should have something to say as to where the road should be constructed.

MERCHANTS FORM CREDIT ASSOCIATION.

TRUSTEE R. H. CHAPIN ELECTED PRESIDENT.

There was a meeting of merchants and professional men in the Chamber of Commerce room of the library building Tuesday evening, for the purpose of co-operation on the matter of credit extensions.

Trustee R. H. Chapin was elected president; F. H. McElfresh, vice-president; Judge C. W. Warner, secretary-treasurer.

BAND WAS IN SANTA ANA FRIDAY EVE OF LAST WEEK.

Members of the Huntington Beach Municipal Band went to Santa Ana Friday evening of last week for practice for the proposed massed band concert, to be given in that city in the near future. About 35 musicians were present. Another such meeting will be held next Friday evening.

MANNING BUYS A FORD.

Ed Manning, the plumber, purchased a Ford touring car Wednesday morning from T. B. Talbert & Co., Ford agents.

Dancing, at 616 St. Paul avenue, Los Angeles, which he and Miss Rambova and Miss Fredowa conducted during their vacation. The school will be continued through the winter by Ivan Vickeroff, who appears this week in the Russian Peasant dance number with the stately Miss Rambova of the Imperial Russian Ballet.

Other good numbers on the bill this week are: Mrs. Gene Hughes, "Gowns;" David Sapirstein, pianist; Five Nelsons, "Hoops, My Dear;" Tom and Edith Ensign; "Talking Fiddle;" Horace Wright and Rene Dietrich, singers. Miss Edith Ensign is a Santa Ana girl and is making a success on the circuit, and there will no doubt be many of her Orange county friends visit the show on that account.

WILL COST MORE TO TRAVEL NEXT MONTH.

YOU SHOULD CARRY SOME PENNIES WITH YOU.

The following information is furnished by the Pacific Electric Railway Co.:

The railroads, the steamship lines and the jitneys must collect and turn over to the Government a tax of 8% where a passenger fare is over 35 cents, "not including the amount paid for season or commutation tickets for trips less than thirty miles or transportation the fare for which does not exceed 35 cents."

The round trip fare to Venice or Redondo or Santa Monica is 50 cents. The passenger will pay the railway 54 cents from November 1st. The one way fare to each of these points is 35 cents, and, therefore, no tax will be collected.

When you travel, bring your pennies with you.

The round trip fare to Pasadena is 25 cents, so there will be no tax; to Santa Ana it is $1.00, so the passenger will pay $1.08.

The result will no doubt be to increase the sale of commutation tickets, which for distances under 30 miles are not taxed. The sale of family commutation tickets will be especially increased. The larger part of the heavy suburban travel in and out of Los Angeles, running into many thousands of people each day, is within the thirty-mile distance.

Fares paid on trains or to jitney buss drivers are taxed the same as tickets bought at ticket offices. The penalties are severe for failure to pay up.

If a ticket is purchased before November 1st and partly used, no tax will be collected, except on mileage and scrip books. When such books are presented on or after November 1st the agent or conductor will collect the tax due. If a ticket is bought before November 1st and not used until November 1st, or thereafter, the tax must be paid before it will be accepted for passage. Commutation tickets purchased and partly used before November 1st will not be taxed, regardless of distance.

The tax on freight shipments is three per cent of the freight charges. It applies to railways, steamship lines and motor trucks serving as common carriers in this section. Whoever pays the freight pays the tax. If you ship a carload of oranges East and the freight charge is $300, the tax will be $9.

The cash fare from Huntington Beach to Los Angeles, and return, is 75 cents, and the tax will be 6 cents.

P. T. A. WILL MEET NEXT WEDNESDAY.

J. A. CRANSTON OF SANTA ANA WILL TALK.

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the Grammar school next Wednesday evening at 7:30.

The speaker for the occasion will be J. A. Cranston, superintendent of the Santa Ana schools, and his topic will be: "Possibilities of the P. T. A."

Mr. Cranston is an interesting talker, and there should be a good attendance on that account. Mr. Cranston will speak and the program will be rendered before the business of the evening is transacted.

NOT MANY FISH.

The number of fish being caught is now comparatively light, and D. W. Huston, official fish reporter, does not expect any big runs for some time. However, some of the faithful ones manage to hook a few each day and feel well rewarded for their labor.

THE RECEPTION TO TEACHERS A SUCCESS

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ENTERTAINS.

REFRESHMENTS WERE SERVED

J. A. Cranston of Santa Ana and E. E. French Deliver Splendid Talks on Co-operation.

The reception tendered members of the faculties of the High and Grammar schools was a decidedly successful affair. The attendance was not as large as had been anticipated, but was representative, and large enough to indicate that the movement was a popular one, and will result in considerable good for the community. So far as known, the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce established a precedent in the affair, Friday night.

The weather was threatening, and the reception was held in the Grammar school auditorium, and there are some who do not care to attempt to find the Grammar school on dark nights, which probably accounted for the attendance being somewhat smaller than was expected.

The reception was held in the lobby and hallway of the school, and after the completion of the serving, the auditorium was opened and the guests were seated.

R. L. Obarr and Ralph C. Turner had charge of the reception.

E. E. French, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided, and made some very appropriate remarks on the subject of co-operation. Mr. French said the teachers owed more to the community than just giving a portion of their time for a stipulated salary. They should feel interested in the affairs that are vital to the up-building of the community in which they are paid for educational work, and should become so identified with the varied interests that they would be considered as valuable to the locality as a permanent resident.

Mr. French introduced Dr. S. G. Huff, president of the High school board, who made some pleasant and appropriate remarks.

The address of the evening was made by J. A. Cranston, superintendent of the schools of Santa Ana, who is now serving his twelfth year in that capacity. Mr. Cranston is a good story teller and usually has a list of interesting ones to amuse his auditors. Mr. Cranston said that it was the first time he had heard of a Chamber of Commerce giving a reception to school teachers, and the idea appealed to him, and showed a splendid spirit on the part of the business men of the community toward those who are employed in school work.

He said there was every reason why there should be co-operation between the teachers and the business men of the community, as, if the business interests of the district prospered, the question of a raise in salaries would be much more likely to be acted upon favorably.

Mrs. C. E. Kutzner had charge of serving refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake.

The following composed the receiving line: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. French, City Attorney and Mrs. Alex. P. Nelson, Judge and Mrs. Louis A. Copeland, Mrs. C. W. Warner.

The teachers were all present, except Miss Ritchey, Mr. Swift and Mr. Sprout of the High school faculty and Mr. Walker of the Grammar school.

The following contains a list of all the names that could be secured, and is therefore not complete: Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Huff, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McElfresh, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vavra, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Larter, W. L. McKenney, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, Judge and Mrs. Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. French, Trustee and Mrs. R. H. Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Laverling, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hearn, Judge and Mrs. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Canady, Trustee and Mrs. H. C. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Williams, Mrs. Fannie Skinner, Mrs. H. D. Jackson, Mrs. J. L. Williams, Mrs. F. H. Sylvester, Mrs. C. S. Bundschuh, Mrs. W. R. Higgins, Mrs. Elsie Grunwald, Mrs. W. M. Hodge, Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. Wm. C. O'Connor, Mrs. O. A. Horn, Mrs. Owen D. Peters, Mrs. Julietta Young, Mrs. H. J. MacGregor, Mrs. Viola Godfrey, Miss Evva Eckerson, Miss Hazel Horn, Miss Juanita Kutzner, R. L. Obarr, Ralph C. Turner, Dr. F. E. Wilson, Dr. G. A. Shank, W. R. Wharton, Rev. R. I. McKee, E. C. Wright, B. T. Mollica, Jas. J. Conrad.

"THE LITTLE TERROR" HERE SATURDAY EVE.

"THE HAUNTED PAJAMAS" FOR TUESDAY NIGHT.

Mrs. Nelson feels that she owes the patrons of the Princess an apology and an explanation for the show at the Princess Sunday night. It is not the policy of the Princess management to extol the merits of a picture unless there is every reason to believe that the picture will warrant it. In the case of the pictures of Sunday night, Mrs. Nelson was the most surprised and disappointed person that witnessed the picture, for she had been told great stories of the merits of the war picture, of which this was to have been the first of a series, and whatever was said in the advance announcements was said in good faith on her part. The exhibition, however, did not come up to the advance announcements, for which Mrs. Nelson was more chagrined and disappointed than any patron could possibly have been, and she wishes to assure the patrons of the Princess that this is not the policy of the theatre, and that it will not happen again.

The Bluebird offering for Saturday night is dainty little Violet Mersereau in "The Little Terror," in which she plays a dual role, and a rare treat is promised to lovers of good comedy drama. Life with the circus, the lure of travel, excitement, and the care-free life under canvas is the theme of "The Little Terror," and Miss Mersereau, as the hoydenish circus rider, is provided with a role exactly suited to her peculiarities in dramatic style, and when the plot switches to bring the circus girl into high society, no end of merriment results from the contrasting ideals of circus life and fashionable procedures. "The Little Terror's" propensity for always doing the wrong thing at the right time keeps the audience in roars of laughter, and, with all the comedy, there is told a love story of great charm. It is just good, wholesome entertainment of the sort Bluebirds have become dependably famous for.

Sunday night is a bill of good, clean comedy, calculated to bring joy to the hearts of the children.

Tuesday evening will see our old friend, Harold Lockwood, the prince of entertainers, in "The Haunted Pajamas," a Metro comedy drama of quaint conception, and Mr. Lockwood's style of acting is peculiarly adapted to the rollicking comedy, and in "The Haunted Pajamas" he has a medium of expression that is exactly suited to his talents. All the Huntington Beach theatre-goers have seen him many times before, and it is needless to say that his one aim is to entertain, and that he always accomplishes his aim. In saying that this picture is the most entertaining one in which he has yet appeared, no higher praise could be given it.

Usual Tuesday night prices: Adults, 15 cents; children, 10 cents.

LIBERTY BONDS ARE SELLING RAPIDLY.

FIRST NATIONAL GETS FIRST IN COUNTY.

The Liberty Bonds are selling rapidly. Judge A. Copeland, president of the First National Bank, states that more of the second issue have already been subscribed for in Huntington Beach than were sold of the first.

The First National Bank of this city had the honor of receiving the first Liberty Bonds arriving in Orange county. The California National Bank of Santa Ana borrowed one of the bonds for exhibition purposes, and stated it was borrowed from the First National Bank of Huntington Beach.

WHAT DR. HUFF SAID AT THE RECEPTION.

The following are the remarks made by Dr. S. G. Huff, president of the High School Board, at the reception to teachers, Friday evening of last week, which were not received in time to run with the report of the reception published on another page:

Mr. Chairman, Teachers, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I like the idea of calling a meeting like this, by the Chamber of Commerce, or some representative body, for the purpose of welcoming our school teachers in our midst and getting better acquainted with them. Now that you are here for that purpose, see that you give them such a hearty welcome that not one of them may ever feel the need of spending the week-end elsewhere to feel that warmth of friendship that every human heart longs for. Parents ought to know the teachers of their children, and the teachers want to know the home life of their pupils, hence you should invite them to your homes. It will help the teacher to know the environment that the pupil lives in.

I want to say just enough to get a good, healthy, warm mix-up of friendship started here tonight, that will grow and last as long as one of these teachers are with us.

When your chairman on invitations, Mr. Obarr, invited me to talk to you here tonight, he also invited me to make it short, good advice. I promised him that I would not only make it short, but would make it very short. And, while no written bond or contract binds me, there still exists one like unto that between the Mikado and Uncle Sam, in the matter of Japanese emigration—a gentlemen's agreement—and to me my word is equally as sacred as any bond, and I want my friends to so esteem it. However, I beg to ask: What would a school be without a faculty? Or, what would a faculty be without women? Woman, man's dearest and best companion; the world would be lonesome without her.

HALLOWE'EN BALL AT SEAL BEACH.

Seal Beach, October 19.—The Seal Beach Chamber of Commerce is preparing for a Halloween ball, to be given in the pavilion Wednesday, October 21st, which, it is promised, will outrival its famous snowball dance of last March.

Otto L. Little is in charge of the arrangements. The pavilion will be elaborately decorated in orange and black, using witches, black cats, bats, jack-o'-lanterns and other appropriate designs.

A battery of the famous Seal Beach scintillators will throw all the colors of the rainbow upon the streamer effects, which will be draped from the rafters, producing a remarkably beautiful picture in colors.

Appropriate souvenirs will be given and every effort made to combine an old-fashioned Halloween celebration with modern improvements. Music by an exceptionally good jazz band.

A general invitation is extended for this unique celebration, and a very large attendance will undoubtedly result.

Seal Beach is "open the year round," and the Chamber of Commerce is doing its full share, both in a business way and socially, to keep this lively beach town on the winter map.

Ladies who take pride in having clear, white clothes should use Red Cross Ball Blue. All good grocers.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Cotton fabric, in five to seven plies. Thread Cord, or Web (strings the size of trout line held parallel the circumference of the tire, interspersed by cross threads) gummed together in five to seven plies—meaning internal heat.

And cable cord, the unique, patent protected, two-play structure found ONLY in GOODRICH SILVERTOWNS, the original cord tire.

Huntington Beach Plant of the Holly Sugar Corporation.

HOLLY SUGAR CORP. GIVES ANNUAL BARBECUE

Attendance at Sixth Annual Barbecue Given at Factory Thursday Equal to That of Last Year; About 3,000 Passed Through Gates of Big Plant; Ball Game, Dancing, Bowling Match and Horse Shoe Pitching Afternoon and Evening.

The sixth annual barbecue given by the Holly Sugar Corporation, Thursday, at the factory, north of the city, was a tremendous success from the sound of the gong at 10:00 a. m. till the curtain dropped at 11:00 p. m. The affair was given for those who grow beets for the Holly Sugar Corporation and the Southern California Sugar Co., at Delhi, owned and operated by the Holly Sugar Corporation.

The visitors were received by C. A. Johnson, general manager for the Western interests of the Holly Sugar Corporation, and A. M. O'Brien, assistant manager, and their assistants. Mr. Johnson entertained a delegation of traffic officials of most of the big transportation companies of the country.

There was one point upon which all agreed, that the menu was more palatably prepared and satisfactorily served than on any former occasion. Such remarks as the following were frequently heard: "What fine meat," "This coffee is great," "These beans are fine." The menu consisted of choice steaks, pink beans, buns, butter, pipe, olives and coffee. There were steaks by the ton on the hot irons, beans by the barrel and buns by the thousands, and coffee enough to float a ship. The entertainment was under the supervision of Mr. O'Brien, who estimated the attendance about the same as last year, when 3000 persons were served at the banquet tables.

There were accommodations for 1260 persons at the tables in the big tent, which was erected east of the office, and the serving began promptly at noon and continued until the multitude had been satisfied. Candy and cigars were passed along the long line of tables, and everybody felt grateful toward the management of the concern that placed Huntington Beach on the map.

The coffee was prepared by H. C. McCreery, father of M. A. McCreery, of the agricultural department. Mr. McCreery formerly resided in this city, and is now engaged in the coffee business in Pasadena.

The sports of the day began shortly after 10 o'clock, when some of the growers began pitching horseshoes. Prizes were awarded H. J. Mayo, Compton, first; W. R. Anderson, Compton, second; J. McKee, Compton, third; J. Davis, Bolsa, and H. E. Veitch, Compton, tied for fourth place. There was a baseball game at the park at 2:30, between a team from Ft. McArthur and the Pacific Electric Railway nine, the Government boys winning by a score of 9 to 8. There was also a bowling match at the Pavilion alleys, beginning about 7 o'clock, between a picked team from Huntington Beach bowlers and the Compton team, the home boys winning by 44 pins, and each was given a 25-pound bag of Holly sugar. The Huntington Beach team was headed by H. A. Benning, general superintendent of the Holly factory here, the Southern California factory at Delhi, and the Santa Ana factory at Dyer, assisted by R. L. Obarr, Henry Wirth, Joseph Kagerer and Floyd B. Dean. Dancing was enjoyed at Odd Fellows' hall from 6 till 11 p. m.

Many of the visitors inspected the big factory, which was open to all after 10 o'clock. The weather was threatening in the morning and looked as though a regular "Sandy Ana" would prevail throughout the day, which undoubtedly kept many from attending. However, Mr. McCreery, who has charge of the weather department, succeeded in bringing about a desired change before noon, and little inconvenience was occasioned by the morning's blow. Last year the barbecue was held on October 19th and the weather was ideal for the occasion. Splendid music was furnished by a colored orchestra.

The high standing of the Holly Sugar Corporation with the beet growers is again evidenced by this pleasant occasion.

The serving, as in the past, was performed by the business and professional men of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce, assisted by factory employees. The work was under the supervision of R. L. Obarr, chairman of the entertainment committee. A captain was appointed for each of the aisles, and there was little delay in the service.

The business district was closed from 11 a. m. till 2 p. m., and most of the business men were present. The following assisted in the work: Mr.

Obarr of Obarr's drug store; C. E. Lavinger, cashier First National Bank; J. K. McDonald, secretary Pacific Oilcloth & Linoleum Co.; F. H. McElfresh of the McElfresh Merc. Co.; Constable G. S. Bergey of T. B. Talbert & Co., distributors of Ford, Dodge and Lexington cars; T. R. Canady, jewelry and watch repairing; E. C. Wright, real estate and insurance; E. Sarabere, tailor and cleaning and pressing; B. T. Mollica, shoes and repairing; L. M. Lindsley, retired; F. B. Miles of the Huntington Beach Hardware Co.; G. O. Franklin and Ned N. Brown, barbers; Alfred Onson and L. J. Hahn of the Huntington Beach Sheet Metal Works; Carl Olson, furniture; Claude Leatherman of Olson's furniture store; W. M. Adair, grocer; Dr. G. A. Shank, physician; Roy Labadie; F. L. Snyder; C. E. Kutzner, building contractor and confectioner; Trustee D. W. Huston, Pavilion bowling alleys; W. R. Wharton of W. L. McKenney & Co., grocers; C. A. Paul, retired; City Clerk Chas. R. Nutt; Trustee R. H. Chapin, dentist; Judge W. D. Seely, real estate and insurance; R. C. Holmes, rancher; H. T. Dunning, manager San Pedro Lumber Co.; Joseph Vavra of the Huntington Beach nurseries; A. M. Nolder, grocer; Jas. J. Conrad, editor Huntington Beach News.

SERGEANT TURNER'S WEEKLY LETTER.

Camp Sheridan, Q. M. C. Chauffeurs, No. 216, Montgomery, Alabama, October 15th, 1917.

Dear Friends:

I suppose the questions, "How Does the United States Transport Her Troops to Southern Camps?" and "How Does She Feed Them?" have come into your mind many times. In this letter I will try and give you a picture as to how this is done. Let us take a day of work of unloading troops, starting at sunrise:

Shortly after reveille and mess, we truck drivers start for the different railroad sidings of the camp. We go in what is known as our truck train. It is quite a sight to see thirty-five large trucks, one after another, going up a road. At our railroad crossings and sidings the Government has built platforms for unloading. These are the height of the floor in a freight car, are twelve feet wide and vary in length from two blocks to a half mile. The troop trains pull in on separate tracks, and the men, with their packs on their backs, line up in front or along the sides of their cars, and, with time kept by a military band, they march to the position in the camp which is to be their quarters. This, however, does not include the detail of men who are chosen to take care of the mules, horses and freight. They at once go to the platforms which I spoke of, and mules are bridled or haltered in groups of four and taken to a position out in the field where they are formed in squad formation until the whole train is unloaded, when they are hooked up to their special wagons, buggies or field machinery, as the case may be. They then assume regular marching order and at once leave for their camp. Each wagon has its load before it is taken from the train.

What do the trucks do? Their duty is to haul the personal baggage of the men, help the disabled and then help in carrying the food supplies for men and horses. Each Company has a mess hall in Camp Sheridan, and these are built rather close together and their ends are a few feet from the road. A Company pitches its tents in rows, parallel and even with their mess houses, and directly behind them.

Yesterday we hauled and helped unload 3500 field artillery, and 1000 mules and horses. Can you imagine such a sight? Yes! And if you could see how much that is and then know that it is but a small part of Camp Sheridan, which is only one of many camps in the United States, then you can begin to realize what Uncle Sam is doing and how he is preparing for the struggle.

When these trains come in, they come a dozen sometimes at a time, and from 8 to 19 coaches to a train, and the freight trains in number to accord with the branch of service which is being transported.

Then comes the question, "How Can Such Large Numbers of Men be Fed the Right Kind of Food and Enough of It?" This is done by another large branch of our army.

To the southeast of the main camp stands a section of buildings with dozens of outdoor ovens behind them. Each oven is made of brick, with iron frontpiece piece, which has doors and chimney. Inside are many shelves of grates, and upon these the hundred of thousands of loaves of bread are made. The bakers who attend the ovens look for all the world like our civilian bakers, for they wear but undershirt and trousers. However, those who pass the finished product out to the wagons and trucks are dressed in very clean white, such as waiters in our diners use. The bread is hauled away by the wagon and truckload. From one to two dozen such conveyances are used each morning.

It takes 530 loaves of bread each day to feed a regiment, so you see the need of hauling by truck. But bread isn't all which the army gets to eat. We have meat—good meat, which is inspected each day by an army official before a piece is used. A truck is kept busy hauling meat to the different mess halls. Each mess hall has a very large ice box, so that all provisions which might otherwise spoil are kept in it. But meat isn't all we get, either. Our potatoes, greens, rice, etc., come by the carload.

Let me say, also, that, of course, each mess house must have wood, and it keeps several mule teams busy just unloading carload after carload of wood.

The sanitation around this camp is another wonderful thing. Besides 12 hospitals, one mule train of sanitary wagons, ambulance troops, etc., every drop of refuse water must be put in large ovens and boiled away. The extra refuse is then burned. This perhaps gives you an idea of what is going on in the different camps.

I am glad to read of the prospective plans of Huntington Beach and also of its social life. I want to thank those who have tried to make my camp life brighter by writing me, and last, but not least, I hope, after a successful period in our army, to come back and be one of you again.

As ever, your friend,
SERGEANT FOREST B. TURNER.

Secrets of GOOD ADVERTISING

BUILDING CONFIDENCE.

When you patronize a merchant who practices honesty in his advertising and always sells the quality he offers through his printed announcements, you acquire confidence in him and his goods.

You accept his word as truth. You know that when he says he is going to sell dollar values at half price you can buy a full dollar's worth for fifty cents.

And you feel that you can go to his store at any time and be assured of honest treatment, honest values and honest prices.

Good advertising in its fullest sense can give any merchant the reputation of being "on the square." On the other hand, advertising with only an occasional little untruth can often undermine the reputation of a dealer to such an extent that you become suspicious and question every statement he makes thereafter.

Advertising that tends to build confidence is a mighty and valuable instrument in the hands of the progressive merchant. It is the means of nourishing his business and making it grow to the limit of its capacity.

How do you know you don't like Eader's Bread? Try it once.

No other bluing equals Red Cross Ball Blue. Makes the laundry happy. All grocers.

Buy Where Reputation Counts

When you buy merchandise there is great satisfaction in knowing that you have received good value for your money. But the satisfaction is greater when you know in advance that the value is going to be good.

That's what happens when you trade at local stores, where the dealers have good reputations to maintain, and where they do maintain them by selling only good goods at fair prices.

When you buy from strangers you are very apt to receive mediocre value at price of better. For your own protection buy where reputation counts—at home.

WEEKLY GREETING.

I have always been thinking of the different ways in which Christianity is taught, and wherever I find one way that makes it a wider blessing than any other, I cling to that as the truest—I mean that which takes in the most people as sharers in it. It is surely better to pardon too much than to condemn too much.—George Eliot.

THE RECEPTION TO TEACHERS.

The reception tendered the faculties of the public schools last week by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce was a new departure on the part of this commercial organization, and a very commendable one from every point of view.

There has been a feeling in the community for some time that teachers should not be employed in the schools who feel that the only interest they have in the community is their pay check, and that they are superior to the citizens of the districts who are paying them their salaries. One teacher is known to have made the remark that he or she was teaching down to Huntington Beach, the jumping off place, but did not live there.

The reception showed the ones who may be considered loyal to the community and who feel some interest in its progress, and smoked out those who showed by their indifference toward a courteous invitation extended by the commercial interests of the community that they are wholly uninterested in the affairs of the community where they are making their living.

LOWER CALIFORNIA.

The acquisition of the peninsula of Lower California by the United States Government has been discussed in and out of season for a generation or more, and will probably continue to be an interesting question until it is finally purchased from the Mexican Government. There is little doubt but what this strip of land, which is a continuation of the state of California, will eventually become a territory of the Union or a portion of the Golden State.

Lower California is sparsely populated, most of the inhabitants being in the section south of Imperial county, California. While this Mexican state is unattractive and considered of little value at present, the probabilities are that, should it become American territory, it would not be many years before it would become populated and of much value to the Union, just as other purchases that have been made in the past, which were considered "gold bricks" when taken over.

BEETHOVEN.

"It is acknowledged on every hand that in Beethoven the greatest and mightiest form of instrumental music found its greatest and mightiest exponent," Dr. E. Markham Lee writes in "The Story of Symphony."

"It is worth while inquiring why it is that Beethoven has won the proud position that has been assigned to him as facile princeps amongst symphonic writers. The reasons for this are various. First and foremost, he was born at the right time. The experimental work on the symphony had been done by Haydn and Mozart; its form was settled, and completely understood; the principles of orchestration, and the inclusion of certain instruments, were matters that had been determined quite satisfactorily; the great composers who preceded Beethoven had actually gone some distance upon the road towards introducing a certain amount of emotional material into their music. When, therefore, the great genius arrived, the time was ripe for him and the paths had been opened by pioneers who had cleared all obstacles from his progress. Consequently Beethoven was able to take the symphonic form for granted; he was able to experiment in the enlargement of its boundaries without any danger of being misunderstood; he was able to concentrate his thoughts upon the emotional contents of his music, to pour out his wealth of beautiful ideas with glorious effects of harmonic richness and orchestral color, and to expand his movements until all stiffness and angularity of form had disappeared.

"Not merely in respect of form does Beethoven hold his proud position as a composer of symphony; the kind of musical thought welded by him into its boundaries is altogether on a higher plane than any that had appeared before. If we consider much of the work of Haydn and Mozart we find a tendency to similarity of inherent idea in any work, whatsoever its mold. Very much the same style of music appears in these composers whether the work be string quartet, pianoforte sonata, or orchestral symphony. Beethoven, on the other hand, realizes that in employing the orchestra he is making use of the most complex existing medium for the expression of his ideas, and in a similar manner he reserves some of his largest and most weighty utterances for his symphonies. The outlook is almost invariably big; the whole method of conception is one of grandeur and of Titanic force. Beethoven can be, and elsewhere often is, less serious; he may be now and then even trivial, but in the symphonies there is little trace of this; he approaches the matter with serious mien, and the outcome is serenely great. There are but nine symphonies of Beethoven, but they contain more music than do the whole forty of Mozart or the one hundred and fifty of Haydn.

"For Beethoven stands where two paths meet, the classic and the romantic; there is much of both in him; in his music we find, peeping through the classic formulae, the 'gravitation towards romanticism,' as Sir Hubert Parry expresses it, 'which is the recognition of the close relation of music to humanity,' or as he says elsewhere, 'the sense of expressing something' external to music in music which is not defined by words.' In common with much of his finest music the symphonies are full of these unexpected traits of romanticism; the stiff Viennese period, with its rigidly formal lines, is giving way to one in which human thoughts, loves, hopes, fears are to be conveyed on wings of song all the more beautiful because they lack the definiteness of words. It is personal rather than a conventional utterance which breathes through the music of the greater Beethoven."

IS CANOPUS OUR CENTRAL SUN?

[From the Literary Digest]

That our own sun is a very unimportant member indeed of the solar family has long been believed by astronomers. He and his planets, our own earth among them, are traveling rapidly through space, and the probability is that, like other heavenly bodies in motion, he is not flying off at a tangent, but describing an orbit about some body, or group of bodies, larger and more powerful than he. Various candidates for this position have appeared, of which the latest is the southern star, Canopus. Data given by a contributor to the Revue Scientifique would seem to show, at any rate, that Canopus has sufficient bulk to play the part. We read:

"Certain authors have endeavored to show that Sirius occupies this central position, because of its great size—a thousand times that of the sun. So it would be natural, if we accept this reasoning, to inquire whether some other star may not be worthy of our attention on account of its great dimensions.

"The largest star now known is Canopus, in the southern constellation of the Ship, invisible to us of the Northern Hemisphere, but perceptible in our North African colonies—Algeria, for instance.

"An English astronomer, Mr. O. R. Walkley, has made a study of Canopus as a possible center of the universe. His chief arguments are as follows:

"The helium stars of the B group, the type of those that make up the majority of the constellation Orion, are considered, according to the best recent investigations, as being situated at immense distances from our system, for the brightest seem as far away as the palest. On the other hand, it seems as if their luminosity must be great, and they appear not to belong to any determinate star-system. Their distribution with reference to the Milky Way indicates that the apparent center of their system is probably situated at 2:30 degrees of galactic longitude (that is, on the meridian lying 230 degrees from the intersection of the celestial equator with that of the Milky Way)—and between 20 and 30 degrees south of galactic latitude. * * *

"Now, as one may see by the examination of a map of the heavens, this is approximately the position occupied by the famous star, Canopus, or Alpha of the southern constellation Navis (the Ship). On the other hand, the distance of this sidereal center, calculated with reference to the helium stars of the group B, would be about 400 light-years. It should be borne in mind that the light-year is about 15,000,000,000 miles. Designating the unit of stellar distance corresponding to a parallax of one second by the word parsec or sepcar, used by English and American astronomers, we find that this distance may be expressed as 140 sepcars. * * *

"The luminosity of Canopus is 47,000 times that of the sun, its area 18,000 times more vast, its diameter 135 times and its volume 2,420,000 times superior to the respective measure of our solar focus. Its mass is 1,350,000 times greater. These immense dimensions and this power render Mr. Walkley's hypothesis particularly interesting, and we may imagine for the sun a very eccentric parabolic orbit in a plane almost perpendicular to the celestial plane with its focus situated at a distance of 160 sepcars * * * one degree to the west of the star, Beta, of the Great Dog. * * * The elapsed time since the pericentric passage would be 6,950,000 years."

ADVERTISING DOESN'T PAY.

(Norwalk Call.)

This is what an up-country man says. And he is publishing a newspaper, too! Just think of it! But, listen! Get his whole story. This is the way he puts it: "Advertising doesn't pay, and the editor of this journal has found it to be a fact and hereby admits it. Last week he found a sack of spuds in the road. They were taken to the editorial home and the fact advertised in the Press. In less than three hours after the paper was turned over to the postmaster for distribution to its many readers, the owner of the sack of spuds put in a legal claim for their possession. Had the little ad. been omitted from the sheet we would have had that sack of spuds yet.

Moral: If you want to keep your goods, don't advertise in a live paper.—Tracy Press. And the same rule will apply to all other live papers, including the Norwalk Call. Say! did you ever think of it in that way?

Have a heart that never hardens, a temper that never tires, and a touch that never hurts.—Dickens.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(By V. B. Brown, Principal.)

Wesley Cole and Campbell Bullock registered this week for school.

At the assembly period Thursday,
Rev. and Mrs. Hermiston of the Baptist chapel car, Grace, were present. Mrs. Hermiston entertained the students with some humorous readings.

Thursday's program was changed
somewhat, in order to allow students and teachers to attend the barbecue given at the Holly sugar factory.

Plans for the students' savings bank of the High school are under way.
Judge Louis A. Copeland, president of the First National Bank, has been asked to address the students at the assembly period next Thursday upon
"The Value of the Saving Habit." Other business men may be present to assist the school in its plans.

JOE RODMAN WRITES LETTER FROM FRANCE.

The following letter was written by Joe Rodman, a former resident of this city, who is now with the U. S. Expeditionary Force in France, to H. H.
Ferris of Huntington Beach:

—, France, Sept. 10, 1917.

Dear Harry:

Wanted to write to you earlier, but there are many things I want to do nowadays that I don't.

Everything is fine and dandy with me. I am going to take up the matter of our other interests as soon as possible.

I wish I could tell you more about all the various devils that do pursue us, but the censor sits hard on the job. For instance, I can't so much as tell you where I am.

Molly and the baby have left Olpe for a visit to her sister, after which she will spend the winter in Texas.
Both of my girls seem to be enjoying themselves. With my pay allotment, she will have enough to go and do as she pleases. By not taking no for an answer, she even collected my bonus.
Some little rustler, eh, what?

I am learning the lingo without overmuch trouble, though slowly.

Regards to Radcliff and everybody.

Yours, etc.,

JOE RODMAN,
Master Engineer Joe Rodman, Headquarters, 18th Regt. (Railway), U.
S. Expeditionary Force in France.

LOWER FREIGHT RATE GIVEN ON FLOUR.

Pacific coast farmers view with elation the new rate of sixty cents a hundred on flour for export to Europe between San Francisco and all points on the Gulf of Mexico, established by the Southern Pacific at the request of the Food Administration. The old rate was sixty-five cents to Galveston and seventy cents to New Orleans.
The new schedule permits a rate of fifty-eight cents on wheat applicable to all points on the Gulf.

G. W. Luce, freight traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, is seeking authority to make the rate on flour earlier than November 19th, the statutory time.

As a result of the new rate, millions of bushels of Australian wheat, destined for the Allies, will be diverted to San Francisco for milling, sent as flour to Gulf ports, and there re-loaded on steamers bound for Europe. Hitherto the practice has been to transport the wheat on steamers that went from Australia to Europe, clear around the Horn or through the Canal. The new arrangement will save steamers, and,
as flour will not occupy as much space as wheat, a saving in car, as well as trans-Atlantic steamer space, will also be affected.

Traffic experts believe that Pacific coast mills will receive a big impetus from the new rates; that more wheat will be planted here, and a surplus of flour milled from Pacific wheat will be available for export. The new rates apply only to wheat and flour, when consigned through to foreign destinations.

What a Woman In Huntington Beach Is Doing to Meet Her Expenses

If ever there was a time when everyone should think of owning a small plot of ground it is now.

A well-kept garden is the greatest enemy to the high cost of living. We do not need to leave Huntington Beach to find abundant testimony to this.

We have on display in our office some field corn of the White Dent variety grown in Huntington Beach which would make an Iowa farmer green with envy. It was grown without irrigation by Mrs. H. E. Crandall on Seventeenth Street, about five blocks from the surf. Without any further assistance than the plowing of the soil, Mrs. Crandall cultivated several lots, and now has a splendid crop of corn and lima beans. This is how she plans to meet her large paving assessment.

What Mrs. Crandall has done, you may do. If you can afford a half-acre, then by all means, get one; if you can not spare this much, buy a 50-foot lot. Own something and cut the cost of living.

Everything is increasing in price except land. So the time to buy is NOW.

Half-acres, close in, with every convenience, only $500.

50-foot lots, 7 blocks from the business district, only $450.

Easy terms. No interest and no taxes for 4½ years.
